Başdemir

Backend Developer

Results-driven Backend Developer with expertise in crafting scalable, high-performance server-side solutions. Grounded in solid software engineering principles and armed with a keen eye for detail, I specialize in building robust backend architectures. Proficient in various programming languages, databases, and server technologies, I bring a unique blend of technical prowess and creativity to the table. Additionally, I possess a solid understanding of frontend technologies, allowing me to collaborate seamlessly with cross-functional teams and contribute holistically to innovative projects. Eager to leverage my skills to create reliable, user-centric backend systems.
